RESOLUTIONS NOT PRESENTED

Those Favoring County Option Were Never Presented at Rushville Township Convention.

NOR WERE THEY "CHOKED OFF"

Republicans were laughing today over the rumor which has gained credence that resolutions favoring the endorsement of the county local option plank were "choked off" in the mass meeting of the Republicans of Rushville township Saturday afternoon and also in the reorganization meeting of the county central committee yesterday afternoon.

In the first place, local Republicans point out, it is not the custom to endorse any party stand in a township mass meeting or in a meeting to reorganize the county committee. This matter is always left to the county convention. This is the custom followed in every instance, not only by the Republican party, but also by the Democratic party.

It is understood although they were never brought to light and such was known to be the case Saturday, that resolutions were prepared asking the township meeting to endorse county local option. They were never presented before the meeting or action would undoubtedly have been taken on them. Any Republican had a perfect right to present such resolutions if he desired and the meeting would undoubtedly have acted on them in some way.

The Jacksonian said last night: "George W. Looney, Jr., presented resolutions Saturday" (meaning the resolutions endorsing county local option) and farther on in the same story the Jacksonian said: "The resolutions did not get as far as being before the convention Saturday, but were killed before being presented."

Mr. Looney, who it has been understood since Saturday morning, had the resolutions in tow, was consulted today in regard to the alleged "choking" of the resolutions Saturday. He admitted that such resolutions had been prepared and were held by him ready to be presented Saturday, but he says they were not presented before the convention because "it was not deemed advisable at that time."

Mr. Looney said that he understood that the resolutions favoring the endorsement of county local option would be voted down in the convention Saturday. He had no absolute assurance, though, that they would not be accepted by the convention. On the other hand Mr. Looney advocates that the township conventions are the places where endorsement for such a thing should originate because the township mass conventions more nearly represent the rank and file of the party. But he understood, he said, that they would have been voted down Saturday had they been presented.

It has always been the custom for party policy to be sounded in resolutions passed at the county convention. Mr. Looney maintains that the county convention does not so nearly represent the party as the township conventions. But every vote in every township has a perfect right to attend the township meetings when county convention delegates are selected and vote for the men whom he believes would represent his ideas and opinions best.

ANOTHER ADDITION AT BAPTIST CHURCH

One Responds After Powerful Sermon by the Rev. L. B. Arvin on "Judgment."

"HEAVEN," SUBJECT TONIGHT

One conversion was reported at the First Baptist church last night, where the evangelistic meetings are being continued indefinitely by the Rev. L. B. Arvin, brother of the pastor, the Rev. J. F. Arvin. Last night the evangelist preached a powerful sermon after which one person went forward and confessed Christ. Last night the Rev. Mr. Arvin's subject was the third of the series, "Judgment." A large and interested crowd was in attendance last evening and the spirit of the meeting is said to be increasing with each service. Tonight the evangelist will preach on the fourth topic of the series, "Heaven."

WANTED POLICE TO SEND HIS LAUNDRY

HERE WITH PICTURE SHOW

The police receive many requests from people who have little conception of the duties of an officer of the law. These requests are made almost daily and in a great number of cases are commands, not requests. Chief McAllister has had a new one "sprung" on him. Yesterday he received a telephone call from Indianapolis. It was Jim Connors, who had the Crusaders pictures at a local theater last week. Connors desired the chief of police to get his laundry and send it to him. He made it very plain that McAllister was not to lose any time, but rush at once. Of course, the officer did not have a thing to do but get the laundry and rush it off to Indianapolis. He left it to the Chinaman, who seems to have forgotten it, for McAllister received another call from Connors this morning at two o'clock. From the latest reports it is understood the laundry has been forwarded under police supervision.

GUN EXPLODES; FATALY INJURED

Alden Jessup, Age 16, Student in Morristown High School, Dies Two Hours Later.

WAS OUT SHOOTING PIGEONS

Shotgun is Discharged Accidentally, the Full Charge Entering the Youth's Head.

Alden Jessup, aged sixteen years, died at seven o'clock Monday night at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Jessup, four miles north of Morristown, from injuries received two hours before when a shotgun which he was carrying, was accidentally discharged, says the Shelbyville News. He remained unconscious from the time of the accident until death, and exact cause of the discharge of the gun will remain a mystery.

Young Jessup spent the latter part of Monday afternoon shooting pigeons in his father's barn and it is thought that the gun was discharged when he attempted to jump from the ladder leading to the hayloft, over a manger, to the ground.

He was found by a brother lying on the barn floor several minutes after his family at the house had heard the last report of the gun. The charge of shot penetrated his head on the right side, the entire skull being torn open.

The brother carried him to the house and Dr. R. S. McCray of Morristown was summoned. The terrible wound was dressed but nothing could be done to thwart the call of death after such a terrible injury had been inflicted. It is considered remarkable that he lived two hours after the accident.

The lad leaves his father and mother and two brothers. The members of the family are prostrated at the sudden and terrible death of their son and brother.

He was a student of the Morristown high school and was well known in that city.

BOYS BANQUETED BY GIRL'S CLASS

Winners in Sunday School Contest Entertained Last Night at Main Street Christian Church.

SIXTY-EIGHT IN ATTENDANCE

The banquet given last night in the basement of the Main Street Christian church by Mrs. C. M. Yocum's Sunday school class of girls to the boys' class, taught by the Rev. C. M. Yocum was attended by sixty-eight and was a success in every way. Gold and white, the girls' class colors, were used in decorating. An elegant four-course dinner was served, following which toasts by Mrs. Yocum, the Rev. Mr. Yocum and others were given. Small alarm clocks were given as favors. The miniature clocks had a compass on the back, carrying out the idea that the needle pointed to the church and the clock to the time of the service. The banquet was the result of a contest to secure new members between the two classes and was a most enjoyable affair.

WILL TALK ABOUT THE CONVENTION

County Chairman Clata Bebout Will Call the Candidates and Precinct Committeemen Together Soon.

DELEGATION TO BE SMALLER

No Place to Hold County Convention is Setback For Early Date Adherents.

The new county Republican chairman, Clata L. Bebout, expects to consult all of the interested persons before he issues the usual call for the county convention. Some Republicans are in favor of a late county convention, while others favor an early convention.

The county chairman expects to call a meeting of the thirty-one precinct committeemen in the county and all of the candidates for the county office nominations in the near future to get expressions from them concerning the date for the county convention. It is likely this meeting or conference will be called by the new county chairman for Wednesday of the second or third week of February. This is very indefinite as yet, however.

Some candidates for office, as well as some of the new precinct committeemen favor an early convention. Last campaign the convention was held March 17th; the campaign before on March 15th, and the campaign previous to that on March 13th. If an early convention is decided on for this year, the convention will probably be near one of these dates.

The only problem concerning an early convention which confronts the county chairman is the place of holding such a meeting. There is not a room, hall or building in the city which would accommodate the convention. The convention may be held in the colosseum in the city park, but there is no method of heating it so that it would be comfortable for a March meeting, if the weather is anything similar to what it generally is at that season of the year. So the county chairman believes it may be imperative to hold a late convention on account of the lack of proper accommodations.

There will be thirty-seven less delegates in the county convention this year than there were two years ago. One delegate is allowed for every ten votes cast in the campaign previous. Last campaign was an "off" year and the vote was not very heavy, which accounts for the lessening of the size of the convention this year.

The Rushville township delegation will lead the convention this year with 101 delegates, which is sixteen less than were in the delegation last campaign. The size of the delegations of the various townships this year and last, and the loss this campaign is as follows:

	1910	1912	Loss
Ripley	35	29	6
Posey	17	16	1
Walker	12	10	2
Orange	17	15	2
Anderson	29	27	2
Jackson	11	9	2
Center	13	13	0
Washington	8	7	1
Union	20	18	2
Noble	20	19	1
Richland	12	10	2

Necessary for choice in the coming convention, 137 votes.

Rush county delegates elected Saturday in each of the precincts of the county will journey to Cambridge City tomorrow to attend the Sixth district convention. At that time a successor to Elmer Bassett of Shelbyville will be elected as district chairman. Linus P. Meredith of Richmond is the only candidate and will likely be chosen by acclamation.

TO BE BOARD'S BUSY DAY

Board Will Let Eight Contracts For Highways Tomorrow.

Tomorrow the Rush county board of commissioners will have about the busiest day of its existence. The city will literally be flooded with road contractors on that date. The commissioners have advertised that they will let the contracts on eight highways in Rush county. The auditor's office will be a busy place as other business will be considered.

RETURNS AFTER GREAT REVIVAL

Homer Cole Leads Singing in Bowling Green, (O.) Christian Church Meeting.

58 ADDITIONS IN FOUR WEEKS

Homer Cole returned home last evening from Bowling Green, Ohio, where he has been leading the music in a revival meeting which has been conducted by the pastor of the Christian church there. Mr. Cole says that the series of evangelistic meetings was a great success although the temperature hovered below zero during the four weeks that the meeting was held. There were fifty-eight additions to the church during the revival. The local evangelistic singer says the church was crowded with people each night and the attendance was much better than was expected due to the extremely cold weather.

During the time that Mr. Cole was in the meeting at the Christian church a revival was being held at the Methodist church in the same city. The services there were conducted by a Louisville (Ky.) pastor and the music was led by Charles Gabriel, song writer and noted evangelistic singer. Bowling Green is about the size of Rushville and the Christian church there is as large as the Christian edifice in this city.

CASE FILED TODAY IS NEW "WRINKLE"

Security Life Insurance Company Brings Proceedings Supplementary Against Morris Winship et Al.

TO COLLECT COURT JUDGMENT

A suit was filed in the circuit court this afternoon which court attaches term a new "wrinkle" in the local courts. Such a case has not been filed here within the remembrance of most persons around the court. The suit is entitled proceedings supplementary. It was brought by the Security Life Insurance Company of America against Morris M. Winship, Roy H. Jones, the Rushville National bank and Charles W. Mouch of Newcastle.

As court attaches understand it the case demands that the first defendant come into court and show how much the other three defendants are indebted to him. The plaintiff was rendered judgment on Mr. Winship on an insurance policy premium in the local court, and when the company failed to find anything on which to levy judgment, it brought this action. The plaintiff expects to collect the judgment in this manner.

JIM WATSON FOR VICE-PRESIDENT

S. M. Sexton of Pottsville, Pa., Former Indianan, Asks Why Not Local Statesman.

THE SECOND HIGHEST OFFICE

Clear to Him Roosevelt Conspired With "Dynamiters" to Defeat Watson For Governor.

S. M. Sexton of Pottsville, Pa., suggests James E. Watson of this city as a running mate for Taft in the coming campaign. Incidentally he "takes a fall" out of Roosevelt in the following letter to the Indianapolis Star:

Hardly a day passes that I do not read in the Star where some gentleman is advocating the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt instead of President Taft.

That is all right in Indiana, which is a doubtful State and where Governors become so obsessed with their own transcendent ability that they usurp the sovereign powers of the people and make constitutions overnight, but it won't "go" here in Pennsylvania, which has not been a doubtful State since 1856.

We want performance, not platitudes. We want a President who neither prates nor postures—not one who is so continually telling how things should be done that he has no time to do them.

We Pennsylvanians gave Roosevelt 600,000 majority in 1904. He can not carry six counties here now. We are perfectly aware that he and his cronies conspired to beat George H. Earle, Jr., for mayor of Philadelphia last fall and simply because Mr. Earle exposed Roosevelt's outrageous course in dealing, or rather not dealing with the wrecking of Segal's sugar refinery across the river in Camden.

I lived in Indiana twelve years ago and not a single doubt exists in my mind but what Roosevelt was behind the outrageous libeling and lampooning of the Hon. Charles Warren Fairbanks because the latter had the audacity to aspire to the presidency. And it is equally clear to me that Roosevelt conspired with the "dynamiters" to beat Hon. James E. Watson, the "noblest Roman of them all," in 1908. If you Hoosiers want a deer instead of a talker, why not Watson for Vice-president with Taft?

Pennsylvania Republicans were not for Mr. Taft in 1908, but we are for him now, heart and soul. He did things where others spouted gasconade.

ACRID FLUID BURNS SKIN

Why Eczema Spreads—Little Vesicles Must Be Dried up.

Try This Remedy at Our Risk.

In eczema the little vesicles or pimples are filled with a fluid that burns and tortures the skin the moment they are torn open by scratching. This is why scratching makes the disease more painful instead of giving relief.

In this condition we can conscientiously recommend our new skin remedy, Saxon Salve, for its action on the skin in all forms of eczema and other distressing skin troubles is indeed marvelous.

The terrific itching is allayed at once, the acrid fluid in the vesicles is neutralized and dried up and at the same time Saxon Salve penetrates and saturates the skin with its healing, antiseptic power.

We guarantee that Saxon Salve will satisfy you if you use it for skin troubles—if it does not we will pay back your money. F. B. Johnson & Co. Rushville, Ind.

IRON SCHEDULE TO BE REVISED

That Is, If Senate Follows House Lead.

BILL PASSES AMID CONFUSION

Republicans, Resenting Vigorous Use of Steam Roller by Democratic Majority, Delay For Several Hours the Vote on the Bill to Revise Iron and Steel Schedule of Tariff Law, but It Finally Passes by Vote of 210 to 109.

Washington, Jan. 30.—By a vote of 210 to 109 the Democratic bill revising the iron and steel bill of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law was passed by the house. The Republican minority became indignant at the refusal of Majority Leader Underwood to permit discussion of the free list paragraph in the measure, and by numerous amendments and ceaseless calls for "division and tellers," succeeded in delaying action for several hours.

On final passage twenty-one Republicans and Representative Berger of Wisconsin, the lone Socialist, voted with the Democrats for the measure. The Republicans were Jackson, Muddock and Young of Kansas; Aiken of New York; Davis and Lindberg of Minnesota; Haugen, Woods and Hubbard of Iowa; Warburton and La Follette of Washington; Lenroot, Moore and Nelson of Wisconsin; Norris, Sloan and Kinkead of Nebraska; Kent and Stephens of California; Lafferty of Oregon, and Helgeson of North Dakota. Three Democrats, Martin, Rucker and Taylor of Colorado voted with the Republicans against the steel bill. In the Democratic caucus held a week ago to indorse the measure these members explained that they were pledged to their constituents to vote for higher duties on lead and zinc than were provided by the bill, and by a caucus rule covering the case were excused from being bound by the caucus action.

The scenes in the house just before voting by the roll call, were disorderly in the extreme. Minority Leader Mann had repeatedly protested against the course of Majority Leader Underwood in moving to cut off debate on each paragraph and amendment before all the Republicans members who had expressed a desire to speak had a chance to do so, and when Mr. Underwood, unable to induce Mr. Mann to agree to limit debate to what he considered a reasonable time, finally started the steam roller working and moved that the bill be put on its final passage, there were jeers and catcalls from the Republican side, which were answered with interest by yells and cheers from the Democrats. The bill now goes to the senate. The Democrats expect to have the support of the insurgent Republicans in that body and to put the bill up to President Taft in practically its present form.

ECONOMY PROGRAM

House Democrats in Caucus Take a Whack at Park Board.

Washington, Jan. 30.—In a caucus last night the Democrats of the house declared for economy after a bitter row. They not only instructed the public buildings and grounds committee not to report the $16,000,000 public building bill which the committee favors unanimously, but also they instructed the naval committee not to provide for any increase of the navy at this session.

Altogether the Democrats of the house wiped out proposed expenditures involving $36,000,000. The attack on the battleship program was unexpected and came more in the nature of retaliation than in a spirit of economy.

The public buildings committee and those interested in this pork barrel measure led the attack on the naval committee. When it became apparent that the public building bill was doomed in the caucus, they started out after the battleship program. Democrats now say that in order to be consistent they must prohibit a river and harbor bill, which it has been estimated will carry about $30,000,000 this year.

The Colonel's Attitude. Colonel Roosevelt reiterates his oft-stated statement that when he has a statement to make regarding his political plans such statement will be in his own words and over his own signature.

NOTED LAWYER FACES CHARGES

Clarence Darrow Indicted for Attempted Bribery.

GRAND JURY CITES TWO CASES

Each Indictment Contains Two Counts, and the Charge is Made That Chief Counsel For McNamara Was Interested in Alleged Attempted Bribery of a Juror and a Prospective Juror in Trial of J. B. McNamara.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 30.—The county grand jury has just returned two indictments against Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for J. J. McNamara and J. B. McNamara, self-confessed dynamiters. The indictments charge Darrow with complicity in the attempted bribery of R. F. Bay, a juror on the J. B. McNamara case, and G. N. Lockwood, a prospective juror in the same case. Each indictment contains two counts. A conviction on one of the counts is punishable by imprisonment in the state prison for not less than one or more than ten years. A conviction on the other count is punishable by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or by imprisonment in the state prison for not more than five years.

Darrow on being informed he had been indicted, said: "I wish to reiterate the statement which I have made several times recently, that is that I know nothing of any bribery or attempt to bribe jurors or anyone else in connection with the McNamara case."

"I have retained Earl Rogers and Judge C. W. McNutt as my counsel and will fight the case to a finish. That is all I have to say at this time."

Darrow will be arraigned Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. He was required to give $10,000 bond on each indictment.

BLOW TO DEFENSE

Alienist Testifies That William Lee Is Legally Sane.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 30.—Dr. C. E. Laughlin, superintendent of the Southern hospital for the insane, dealt a blow to the insanity defense of William Lee, charged with murdering his father, mother and brother, when, answering a 4,000-word hypothetical question, he declared in his opinion Lee was sane.

Attorney Lindsey obtained from Dr. Laughlin an admission that under the hypothesis stated to him a young man might be legally sane and still medically insane, but that admission hardly changed the aspect of the doctor's first answer, since any person legally sane, he said, is accountable at law for his acts.

Lee's retreat from all incriminating questions on the grilling cross-examination to which Prosecutor Davis subjected him was: "I don't know," or "I don't remember." He remembered clearly most of the conversation that Sheriff Scales and Prosecutor Davis had with him on the day they brought him back from Jeffersonville, but he could not recall that he admitted to them again that he murdered his parents and brother. The defense resumed its direct examination this morning, and it is expected that the case will go to the jury late Wednesday.

Will Sell "Ben Hur" Line.

Indianapolis, Jan. 30.—Judge Anderson of the federal court handed down a decree providing for the termination of the Indianapolis, Crawfordsville & Western Traction company receivership suit and ordering the sale of the property. Under the terms of the decree, the property is to be sold on a date selected by Edward Daniels, master in chancery, and must bring at least $1,000,000.

Blind Youth Killed by Streetcar.

Indianapolis, Jan. 30.—Omer Ream, a student at the Indiana school for the blind, who was struck by a streetcar at Pennsylvania and North streets, suffering a fractured skull, a fractured left arm and internal injuries, died after being unconscious for thirty-six hours. The body will be shipped to Kokomo for burial.

Republican County Organizations.

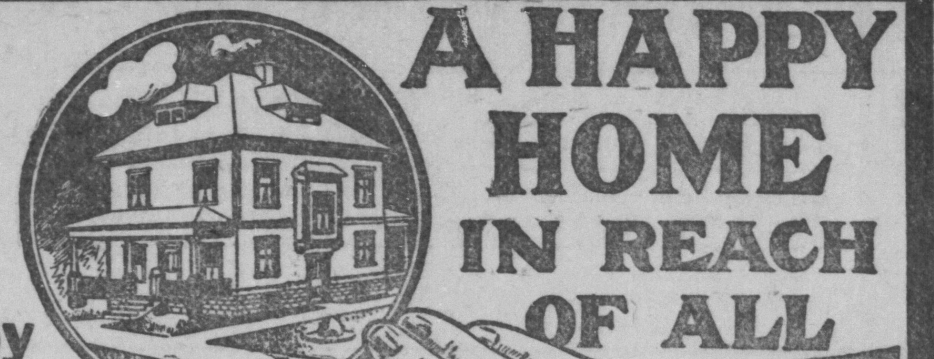

Indianapolis, Jan. 30.—Republican county organizing conventions were held throughout the state Monday, the precinct committeemen meeting to select chairmen and other officials for the ensuing two years. In only a few cases were there any contests reported, and these were conducted along friendly lines.

Sheet Mill Workers Strike.

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 30.—Five hundred mill men are out on strike at the Inland steel mill at Indiana Harbor, thus bringing the sheet mill to a standstill. The workmen say their wages have been cut, while the management asserts there is a misunderstanding. A settlement is looked for in a few days.

Was Learning to Use Revolver.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 30.—While receiving instructions as to how to use a revolver Catherine Vanamersfoot, twenty-eight years old, accidentally killed John Pothoff, twenty-six years old.

We never had any doubt that Mr. Roosevelt would take the office of president rather than see it remain vacant.

It will seem rather dull to the Duke of Connaught to go out and do the chores, after consorting for several days with the higher ups of New York.

If Cal. Harvey will prepare a series of articles on Mount Chimborazo, we feel sure that no presidential candidate will call him down for it.

Why don't some of our agricultural societies buy the throne of China, which can be had cheap now? It would be fine for a judges stand for the horse trots.

The only safe way to travel over the railroad tracks nowadays is by means of a hand car, which can be pulled off one side when you see a train coming.

J. P. Morgan is going to bring home $60,000,000 worth of art treasures. The New York boys would find one of the pyramids as practical, as they can use it for sliding down hill.

Business men are said to be terrorized by the feeling against the trusts. If they can't support their families under present conditions, they can help out by keeping chickens in the back yard.

It is becoming customary to put a man in the front window of music stores and let him make a marathon run on the piano for thirty hours or so. This, however, is no novelty in the residence neighborhoods.

People may think that President Taft and the Duke of Connaught discussed international arbitration, but more likely they exchanged views on the best way to prepare an old-fashioned boiled dinner.

The president of Princeton says a student just graduated from that college is worth only $6 a week. It often takes a persistent advertising campaign to dispose of him even at that figure.

Editorialettes.

Do you have any trouble nowadays with the oldest resident who continually recalls the day when eggs were ten cents a dozen and butter almost as cheap.

Why bring back such sad memories? The hens must live and they can not buy feed for nothing. Besides "Mulley" must have hay.

"All Women Are Handsome," G. Dana Gisson Says; "We Are Cowards" Says The Rev. Harry G. Hill. Such were the headlines on the society page of a metropolitan paper last night.

What's the purpose, to make women vain or what?

Anyway let's make that the happy thought of the day.

Will Dennis come out of the hole Friday?

We have refrained from mentioning groundhog day, but since it is so near at hand we feel that we might be excused for such digression.

We see little of the old-fashioned man who takes his old-fashioned girl out sleigh-riding in the old-fashioned manner. What's the matter? We have the old-fashioned winter all right.

You can tell a candidate by the smile he wears nowadays.

Some wee tiny voice spoke over the telephone today: "You might tell the people that if they will sprinkle salt on the sidewalk so many wouldn't fall down." Take that for what it's worth.

We read that Vigo county has a hen which can sing like a lark. Rush county has the same kind but they are not singing much nowadays. That generally indicates they're about to lay an egg.

Best by Test—FAIR PROMISE.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess will show the great Lubin picture, "The House That Jack Built" as the first film tonight. It is a beautiful love story presenting several thrilling situations. "The Stroke of Twelve" is an Essanay drama. It is a sensational picture told in a very realistic manner.

"The Life Boat" is the title of a remarkable sea story, the first film at the Portola tonight. It is a Vitagraph picture. The other is a Pathe, "A Brother in Arms." This one is a great war drama. Wednesday and Thursday nights a special benefit will be given for the Ladies Auxiliary to the A. O. H. The second benefit for Miss Curtis Lore will be given Friday night. The management announces that any of the tickets out for the show given last week will be accepted at this second benefit. It is planned to make the program as attractive as last Friday, and special music and pictures will be included in the program. The Jackson school orchestra has consented to play and Charles Van Camp will put on another character song.

"The Golden Wedding," the great spectacular picture shown at the Palace last night proved to be a fine picture and was one of the best ever seen here. Tonight's program consists of a Nestor film, "When the West Was Wild" and an Imp "As a Boy Dreams." On Thursday night a feature picture, "The Last of the Mohicans" will be the attraction. It is based on the story of the same title by J. Fenimore Cooper, and each detail of the famous tale is told in the picture.

My Dear Little Playfellow:
"You must have the courage not to see me again, not to speak of me again. If you love me just a little, do this for me, for me who will never forget you, my dear Raoul. My life depends upon it. Your life depends upon it."

"YOUR LITTLE CHRISTINE."
Thunders of applause. Carlotta made her entrance.

"I wish I could but know who was he that addressed me, if he was noble, or at least, what his name is..."

When Margarita had finished singing the ballad of the King of Thule, she was loudly cheered and again when she came to the end of the jewel song:

"Ah, the joy of past compare These jewels bright to wear!"

Thenceforth, certain of herself, certain of her friends in the house, certain of her voice and her success, fearing nothing, Carlotta flung herself into her part without restraint of modesty. . . . She was no longer Margarita, she was Carmen. She was applauded all the more; and her debut with Faust seemed about to bring her a new success, when suddenly . . . a terrible thing happened. Faust had knelt on one knee:

"Let me gaze on the form below me, While from yonder ether blue Look how the star of eve, bright and tender, lingers o'er me, To love this beauty too!"

And Margarita replied:

"Oh, how strange! Like a spell does the evening bind me! And a deep languid charm I feel without alarm With its melody enwind me And all my heart subdue."

All that moment, at that identical moment, the terrible thing happened. . . . Carlotta croaked like a toad: "Co-ack!" There was consternation on Carlotta's face and consternation on the faces of all the audience. The two managers in their box could not suppress an exclamation of horror. Every one felt that the thing was not natural, that there was witchcraft behind it. That toad smelt of brimstone. Poor, wretched, despairing, crushed Carlotta!

The uproar in the house was indescribable. If the thing had happened to any one but Carlotta, she would have been hooted. But everybody knew how perfect an instrument her voice was; and there was no display of anger, but only of horror and dismay, the sort of dismay which men would have felt if they had witnessed the catastrophe that broke the arms of the Venus de Milo. . . . And even then they would have seen . . . and understood . . .

But here that toad was incomprehensible! So much so that, after some seconds spent in asking herself if she had really heard that note, that sound, that infernal noise issue from her throat, she tried to persuade herself that it was not so, that she was the victim of an illusion, an illusion of the ear, and not of an act of treachery on the part of her voice. . . .

Meanwhile, in Box Five, Moncharmin and Richard had turned very pale. This extraordinary and inexplicable incident filled them with a dread which was the more mysterious inasmuch as for some little while, they had fallen within the direct influence of the ghost. They had felt his breath. Moncharmin's hair stood on end, Richard wiped the perspiration from his forehead. Yes, the ghost was there, around them, behind them, beside them; they felt his presence without seeing him, they heard his breath, close, close, close to them! . . . They were sure that there were three people in the box. . . . They trembled. . . . They thought of running away. . . . They dared not. . . . They dared not make a movement or exchange a word that would have told the ghost that they knew that he was there! . . . What was going to happen?

This happened. "Co-ack!"

Their joint exclamation of horror was heard all over the house. They felt that they were smarting under the ghost's attacks. Leaning over the ledge of their box, they stared at Carlotta as though they did not recognize her. That infernal girl must have given the signal for some catastrophe. Ah, they were waiting for the catastrophe! The ghost had told them it would come! The house had a curse upon it! The two managers gasped and panted under the weight of the catastrophe. Richard's stifled voice was heard calling to Carlotta: "Well, go on!"

No, Carlotta did not go on. . . .

Bravely, heroically, she started afresh on the fatal line at the end of which the toad had appeared.

An awful silence succeeded the uproar. Carlotta's voice alone once more filled the resounding house:

"I feel without alarm . . . The audience also felt, but not without alarm. . . .

"I feel without alarm . . . With his melody enwind me—co-ack! And all my heart sub-co-ack!"

The toad also had started afresh! The house broke into a wild tumult. The two managers collapsed in their chairs and dared not even turn round; they had not the strength; the ghost was chuckling behind their backs!

Released From Its Hook, It Plunged From the Ceiling.

And, at last, they distinctly heard his voice in their right ears, the impossible voice, the mouthless voice, saying:

"She is singing tonight to bring the chandelier down!"

With one accord, they raised their eyes to the ceiling and uttered a terrible cry. The chandelier, the immense mass of the chandelier was slipping down, coming toward them, at the call of that fiendish voice. Released from its hook, it plunged from the ceiling and came smashing into the middle of the stalls, amid a thousand shouts of terror. A wild rush for the doors followed.

The papers of the day state that there were numbers wounded and one killed. The chandelier had crashed down upon the head of the wretched woman who had come to the opera for the first time in her life, the old woman M. Moncharmin appointed to succeed Mme. Girly, the ghost's box-keeper, in her functions! She died on the spot and, the next morning, a newspaper appeared with this heading:

"Two Hundred Kilos on the Head of a Concierge."

That was her sole epitaph!

CHAPTER VIII.

The Mysterious Brougham. That tragic evening was bad for everybody. Carlotta fell ill. As for Christine Daae, she disappeared after the performance. A fortnight elapsed during which she was seen neither at the opera nor outside.

Raoul, of course, was the first to be astonished at the prima donna's absence. He wrote to her at Mme. Valerius' flat and received no reply. His grief increased and he ended by being seriously alarmed at never seeing her name on the program. Faust was played without her.

One afternoon he went to the managers' office to ask the reason of Christine's disappearance. He found them both looking extremely worried. Their own friends did not recognize them; they had lost all their gaiety and spirits. They were seen crossing the stage with hanging heads, careworn brows, pale cheeks, as though pursued by some abominable thought or a prey to some persistent sport of fate.

The fall of the chandelier had involved them in no little responsibility; but it was difficult to make them speak about it. The inquest had ended in a verdict of accidental death, caused by the wear and tear of the chains by which the chandelier was hung from the ceiling; but it was the duty of both the old and the new managers to have discovered this wear and tear and to have remedied it in time. And I feel bound to say that MM. Richard and Moncharmin at this time appeared so changed, so absent-minded, so mysterious, so incomprehensible that many of the subscribers thought that some event even more horrible than the fall of the chandelier must have affected their state of mind.

In their daily intercourse, they showed themselves very impatient, except with Mme. Girly, who had been reinstated in her functions. And their reception of the Vicomte de Chagny, when he came to ask about Christine, was anything but cordial. They merely told him that she was taking a holiday. He asked how long the holiday was for, and they replied curtly that it was for an unlimited period, as Mme. Daae had requested leave of absence for reasons of health.

"Then she is ill!" he cried. "What is the matter with her?"

"We don't know." "Didn't you send the doctor of the opera to see her?"

"No, she did not ask for him; and, as we trust her, we took her word."

Raoul left the building a prey to the gloomiest thoughts. He resolved, come what might, to go and inquire of Mamma Valerius. He remembered the strong phrases in Christine's letter, forbidding him to make any attempt to see her. But what he had seen at Perros, what he had heard behind the dressing-room door, his conversation with Christine at the edge of the moor made him suspect some machination which, devilish though it might be, was none the less human. The girl's highly strung imagination, her affectionate and credulous mind, the primitive education which had surrounded her childhood with a circle of legends, the constant brooding over her dead father and, above all, the state of sublime ecstasy into which music threw her from the moment that this art was made manifest to her in certain exceptional conditions, as in the churchyard at Perros; all this seemed to him to constitute a moral ground only too favorable for the malevolent designs of some mysterious and unscrupulous person. Of whom was Christine Daae the victim? This was the very reasonable question which Raoul put to himself as he hurried off to Mamma Valerius.

He trembled as he rang at a little flat in the Rue Notre-Dame-des-Victoires. The door was opened by the maid when he had seen coming out of Christine's dressing-room one evening. He asked if he could speak to Mme. Valerius. He was told that she was ill in bed and was not receiving visitors.

"Take in my card, please," he said. The maid soon returned and showed him into a small and scantily furnished drawing-room, in which portraits of Professor Valerius and old Daae hung on opposite walls.

"Madame begs monsieur le vicomte to excuse her," said the servant. "She can only see him in her bedroom, because she can no longer stand on her poor legs."

Five minutes later, Raoul was ushered into an ill-lit room where he at once recognized the good, kind face of Christine's benefactress in the semi-darkness of an alcove. Mamma Valerius' hair was now quite white, but her eyes had grown no older; never, on the contrary, had their expression been so bright, so pure, so child-like.

"M. de Chagny!" she cried gaily, putting out both her hands to her visitor. "Ah, it's heaven that sends you here! . . . We can talk of her."

This last sentence sounded very gloomily in the young man's ears. He at once asked: "Madame . . . where is Christine?"

And the old lady replied calmly: "She is with her good genius!"

"What good genius?" exclaimed poor Raoul.

"Why, the Angel of Music!" The viscount dropped into a chair. Really? Christine was with the Angel of Music? And there lay Mamma Valerius in bed, smiling to him and putting her finger to her lips, to warn him to be silent? And she added: "You must not tell anybody!"

"You can rely on me," said Raoul. He hardly knew what he was saying, for his ideas about Christine, already greatly confused, were becoming more and more entangled; and it seemed as if everything was beginning to turn around him, around the room, around that extraordinary good lady with the white hair and forget-me-not eyes.

"I know! I know I can!" she said, with a happy laugh. "But why don't you come near me, as you used to do when you were a little boy? Give me your hands, as when you brought me the story of little Lotte, which Daddy is Christine too?"

"She is fond of me!" sighed the young man. He found a difficulty in collecting his thoughts and bringing them to bear on Mamma Valerius' "good genius," on the Angel of Music of whom Christine had spoken to him so strangely, on the death's head which he had seen in a sort of nightmare on the high altar at Perros and also on the opera ghost, whose fame had come to his ears one evening when he was standing behind the scenes, within hearing of a group of scene-shifters who were repeating the ghastly description which the hanged man, Joseph Buquet, had given of the ghost before his mysterious death.

He asked in a low voice: "What makes you think that Christine is fond of me, madame?" "She used to speak of you every day."

"Really? . . . And what did she tell you?"

"She told me that you had made her a proposal!"

And the good old lady began laughing wholeheartedly. Raoul sprang from his chair, flushing to the temples, suffering agonies.

"What's this? Where are you going? . . . Sit down again at once, will you? . . . Do you think I'll let you go like that? . . . If you're angry with me for laughing, I beg your pardon. . . . After all, what has happened isn't your fault. . . . Didn't you know? . . . Did you think that Christine was free? . . . " "Is Christine engaged to be married?" the wretched Raoul asked, in a choking voice.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

A BOON TO WEAK STOMACHS.

By Martha McCulloch Williams.

When the Risleys were invited to a paper-bagged dinner, they came prepared to scoff—and openly. Charming people both, but a bit difficult. Especially the husband. The root of his difficulties I had long since set down as a stomach maladroitness, in doing its whole duty. The stomach's owner took on fat too readily, but did not gain strength proportionately to his thriving.

Therefore I permitted them to be in at the death—the death of several paper bags, the resurrection of their contents. When the broiler came forth bearing a bigish bag, black-brown at the corners, and ready to crack at a touch, they stood smiling, but critical, waiting to see what I would do with it. Catching the bag either side the cut, I lifted it gently—it came apart along all the seams, revealing a chicken, roasted to the most delicate brown all over. But when the carving knife went in there came out the finest flossy juice, and in such quantity it was possible to add "dish-gravy" to the plates as well as that in the boat.

"I never tasted real chicken before," young Risley said, as he took a second helping. His wife gave him an anxious look. "Be careful, dear," she urged. "You know, you've been on the verge of a bad spell all week." His answer was to take another sweet potato, and help himself to succotash—both had been cooked in bags. Salad he disdained upon hearing that there was in wait a damson roly poly—by help of which he rounded out a noble meal. His wife also ate heartily to my great joy. But I saw apprehension in her eye, until the very last.

Early next morning she called me. "Jack slept like a baby and says he has not felt so well in ages," she said. "Where can I get some paper bags?"

M. Soyer states positively that paper bag cookery is fine for contrary stomachs. My experience backs him up in this statement.

The succotash which I made for my friends, the Risleys, was prepared in this manner.

Succotash.—Boil one pint shelled lima beans in slightly salted water half an hour, drain and put while hot into a well buttered bag. Add green corn cut from the cob—four to six ears according to size, butter the size of an egg, half a tumbler of rich milk, a very little salt, a dust of pepper, and a teaspoonful of sugar. Seal bag, lay on broiler, and cook fifteen minutes. The beans are parboiled thus to avoid overcooking the corn, which requires much less time.

Plum Roly Poly.—Damsons are my favorites for this, but any ripe, sound plums will do. Wash and stew them, pick out the seed, and if very juicy, drain away more than half the juice. Sweeten lightly—no spicing is needed. Make puff paste, roll it out in long strips a quarter inch thick, sprinkle sugar on the upper side, then spread thinly with the stewed fruit, roll up and pinch the ends tight. Roll in a little lump of extra butter. Cook thirty minutes in a hot oven—forty if the roly is quite big. Serve hot with a sauce made from the extra juice, along with butter and sugar, cooked together over boiling water.

COLD MEAT COOKERY.

By Nicolas Soyer, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Cannelloni a la Royale.—Take a pound of cold roast veal, free it from skin, fat, etc., and pass it through a mincing machine twice. Add to it six ounces of cooked ham, fat and lean together, also minced. Mix, then add pepper and salt to taste, a teaspoon of minced parsley, a teaspoon half full of minced shallot, a little grated lemon peel, and a dust of nutmeg. Mix again. Add the well-beaten yolks and whites of two eggs, shape into a roll, wrap up in a piece of clean, well-greased paper (a bag cut open), place in bag, and cook for twenty-five minutes.

Mouton Grille a la Indienne.—Underdone mutton for which no other use can be found may be turned into a very nice broil as follows: Cut a sufficient number of slices from a leg of mutton and cut into rounds or squares. Melt a piece of butter, about the size of a large walnut, on a plate in the oven. Add to it a teaspoonful of Harvey's sauce and salt to taste. Mix thoroughly and leave the slices of mutton in the mixture for at least an hour before they are required. Have ready a number of fried croutons, allowing one to each piece of mutton; place the latter on these, put them in a well-greased paper bag, put bag on broiler, cook for eight minutes.

Cold Fish.—Take off all flesh from the fish bones. Mash up a few potatoes. Season to taste. Grease paper bag. Place mashed potatoes at the bottom, flat. Put one teaspoonful flour on top of the fish, three tablespoonfuls of milk, salt and pepper, and a little chopped parsley (if desired), anchovy or other sauce. Mix together. Place the mixture on top of the potato in the bag. Seal up and place on broiler. Allow fifteen minutes in a hot oven.

DUKE OF FIFE

Brother-in-Law of King
George Dead at Assouan.

TERMINATED FATALLY

Duke of Fife Dead of Exposure Incident to Shipwreck.

Assouan, Egypt, Jan. 30.—The Duke of Fife, whose wife is Princess Victoria Alexandra Dagmar, sister of King George of England, is dead here.
The duke, who with his wife and daughters suffered great hardships at the time of the wreck of the steamship Delhi, was taken ill with a chill at Wadi-Halfa on Jan. 23. He was brought here to meet some prominent physicians who had been hastily summoned. He was suffering from pleur-isy and congestion of the lungs and from the first his condition was hopeless. It was supposed he contracted the cold at the time of the shipwreck.

JOINT CONFERENCE STRUGGLING ALONG

End of Miners' Dispute Is Not Yet In Sight.

Indianapolis, Jan. 30.—The operators in the joint conference of the miners and operators in the effort to agree on a scale of wages for mining coal, took decided ground against the unlimited "check off" demand of the miners' convention. The demand would require the operators to check off from a miner's wages any sum that the organization might demand that he pay into the union, and pay this sum to the treasurer of the local organization. The operators say that the system works many hardships among the miners, especially in cases of sickness or loss of work for any cause, and that there is much complaint among their employees over it. The operators are willing to check off the dues of the miner only and refuse to check off assessments levied by the organization.
The prospects for an agreement by the joint conference on a wage scale appear to be remote.

GROWING WORSE

Big Strike at Lawrence Leads to Serious Situation.

Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 30.—After two hours of rioting, during which the lawless woolen and cotton mill strikers had full control of the streets of this city, there was a pitched battle between the police and militia on one side, and about 1,000 strikers, near the Everett mills just before 6 o'clock last night. The affray resulted in the killing of an Italian woman who was standing on the sidewalk, the stabbing of a patrolman, and sore heads for many of the rioters, who were finally put to flight.

The woman killed was the victim of senseless shooting by one of the mob, who seemed to be taking great joy in firing revolver bullets into the ground.
His identity was not learned and no arrests were made. Neither the police nor militiamen fired a shot during the battle, and it is believed that the woman was killed by a bullet which glanced off a stone in the street.

INTERURBAN PROJECT

Extensive System in Kentucky to Connect With Illinois Lines.

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 30.—The engineers of the Kentucky Southwestern Electric Railway, Light and Power company have finished the survey from Paducah to Bardwell, Ky., and have begun on the line to Hickman, Ky. The line west of Paducah extends through Granville, Ragland, Bandana, Oscar, Barlow, and to Bardwell.
Major W. A. Calhoun, the consulting engineer, is compiling his report, which, it is said, will be favorable for the construction of the interurban from Hopkinsville to Paducah and Rickman.

Traffic arrangements have been made with the McKinley syndicate, which operates interurbans in Illinois.
The McKinley line runs into Cairo, Ill., and if the Kentucky Southwestern is built the two roads will jointly operate a ferry across the Ohio river.

SEE MENACE IN PROPOSED PROBE

Business Men Agitated Over Money Trust Hearing.

WOULD EXTEND ITS SCOPE

Representative Henry, Chairman of Committee on Rules in the House,
Now Proposes That the Investigation
Shall Cover a Much Wider Range
Than Was Originally Contemplated, and Bitter Fight Is Predicted.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Just beginning to be realized by officials in Washington is the seriousness to the Democratic party and the business interests of the country of the threatened inquiry into the so-called money trust.
No attempt is made to conceal the fact that this proposition has stirred up a fight between the Bryan and anti-Bryan men in the house that will be waged to a finish. At the same time it is beginning to dawn on the minds of the business men of the country that they are confronted with a serious menace in this proposed agitation over the nation's banking conditions.

The situation over the proposed money trust investigation became acute when Representative Henry of Texas, a Bryan leader, presented a resolution providing for an inquiry that will affect national banks, railroads, industrial corporations and every combination and individual that has anything to do with financial affairs in the great cities of the country. Mr. Henry is chairman of the committee on rules, which has jurisdiction over all measures providing for investigations. His resolution is regarded as the answer of the Bryan men in the house to the efforts that have been made by Leader
Underwood and other conservative Democrats to head off or at least restrict the proposed investigation. The resolution introduced by Mr. Henry charges by inference that the "money trust" exercises a corrupt influence in the nomination and election of men to public office. It charges further that the New York Stock Exchange and New York clearing house are instruments used by the money power in exercising control over railroads and industrial corporations.

The resolution calls for investigation into all political contributions to national campaigns in the interest of national banks, interstate railways and industrial corporations, and also for an inquiry into the methods of financing the cash requirements of interstate corporations and of the marketing of their securities, and provides that the committee on inquiry to be composed of seven members, shall be authorized to compel the production of books and papers and to enforce the attendance of witnesses. To make the dragnet more complete, it sets forth that all persons who testify before the committee shall be immune from prosecution and that no witnesses may plead self-incrimination as a bar to giving testimony.

New York, Jan. 30.—Albert Wolter,

Bill to Reclaim Lands.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 30.—Senator Starling Marshall of Henderson, and Representative G. L. Drury of Morganfield have introduced in the senate and house what is known as the "Ditch Bill," which, if enacted, will enable the owners of hundreds of thousands of acres of swamp land in Kentucky to reclaim the land on easy terms. The residents of Kentucky in the Ohio valley, the Cumberland, Tennessee and Mississippi river valleys are more interested in the measure than elsewhere.

Many Indictments Against Alleged Dynamiters Expected.

Indianapolis, Jan. 30.—The federal grand jury, which has been investigating dynamiting outrages for more than a month, according to the present understanding, will complete its labors and adjourn either Thursday afternoon or Friday. It is expected that thirty indictments at least will be returned by that body, and it is said to be the plan of the government officials to have the arrests all made at the same time if possible. The warrants will be sent out to the districts in which the indicted men reside and local arrests, it is said, will not be made until there has been time in other districts to serve the warrants. For more than two weeks stenographers and typewriters have been busy in the private offices of the district attorney preparing the indictments as they have been ordered by the grand jury, and while the names of none of the men will be given out until arrests are made, it is known that the jury has voted to indict some, and a number against whom the evidence is said to be very strong are yet to be voted on.

New Record is Set in Examination of Head of Rabid Dogs in Laboratory.

7 OUT OF 15 EXAMINED MAD

Emphasizes Danger of Disease and Necessity of Protecting Children And Persons From Dogs.

The finding of evidence of rabies in the brains of seven animals out of fifteen examined by the pathological laboratory of the State board of health in the last two weeks, has established a record not reached by any other equal length of time in the history of the laboratory. While the laboratory authorities explain that the high percentage of infected animals probably does not mean an unusually serious condition as concerns rabies in the State, they declare it emphasizes the danger of the disease and the necessity of properly protecting children and other persons from stray dogs, or other dogs that may be acting strangely.

"The rabid dog violates all the established rules of the dog world," said the acting laboratory superintendent. "Ordinarily a dog will not go out of its way to bite a child, but the rabid dog will. The worst case the State board of health has treated under the new rabies law came from Washington county, where the victim, a little girl was playing in the kitchen of her father's home when she was bitten. The rabid dog was a stray one in the neighborhood, and was running across the lot back of the child's home, when it saw the kitchen door open and the child on the floor. It ran through the door and attacked the child, lacerating it badly about the face and scalp. Keeping that child indoors was no protection from the dog. Our advice to all persons in neighborhoods where there is any reason for suspecting rabies is to get rid of all stray dogs, and see that others have no opportunity to injure any one."

The laboratory authorities feel that claims made by unscientific persons that there is no such thing as rabies, and that the contentions of some physicians that rabies is purely imaginative, is doing a great deal to hinder stamping out the disease in the State. Many physicians pool-pool the idea of a mad dog, and advise persons to give no attention to the claims of the scientists who advocate protective measures against rabid animals. The authorities, however, say this class of physicians is gradually losing ground in the face of positive evidence introduced against their theories.

In the State laboratory, the latest approved scientific principles are applied to handling suspected cases of rabies. The head of a suspected animal, usually a dog, is sent to the laboratory, packed in ice. The brain is removed in the laboratory and an incision made on the inner side of one of the hemispheres of the cerebrum, or large part of the brain. The incision lays bare the Ammon's Horn, a part of the brain where the Negri bodies, which are accepted as positive evidence of rabies are usually found if the animal was infected.

* THAT POLITE MOTORMAN. *
* The Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction Company has one motorman that can not be beat when it comes to being accommodating, says the Shelbyville Republican. He was entering one of the small towns between here and Greensburg on one of his trips when he saw a man driving a horse along the road paralleling the tracks, the animal coming toward the car. The motorman stopped, jumped to the ground and led the horse which had taken fright, past the car and then jumped into the vestibule and continued the trip. He probably saved the company a damage suit. *

HERESY ALLEGED; PASTOR RESIGNS

The Rev. Harry G. Hill Quits Indianapolis Church After Some Dissension.

CONDUCTED CHAUTAUQUA HERE

Accusations of heresy alleged to have been made by Jesse E. Martin, a deacon, are blamed in a large measure by the Rev. Harry G. Hill for his resignation as pastor of the Third Christian church of Indianapolis, which has been tendered the congregation.

The Rev. Mr. Hill is well known in Rushville. He conducted the chautauqua here one season before it came under the management of the local association and made many friends in the city and county. He lectured on the chautauqua program and made a very favorable impression. He expects to take up this work after discontinuing his duties in Indianapolis.

Although the Rev. Mr. Hill, in signifying his desire to resign, gave as his excuse the existence of differences between the church boards and himself, he said yesterday that Mr. Martin's alleged charges had influenced his decision in a large measure. Mr. Martin, who is joint chairman of the official boards of the church, said that no formal charges have been made against the Rev. Mr. Hill. He said that there has been a growing feeling that a change of pastor would be to the best interests of the congregation and that that sentiment culminated in Mr. Hill tendering his resignation.
